

CIVIC DINNER AT ELKS' CLUB
AN ENTHUSIASTIC SUCCESSRoy I. Carson Presided and

Principal Address

MUSIC A FEATURE OF EVENING

"I am going back to Pittsburgh a booster for Charleroi. I have not seen your streets or buildings, but I have seen your men and women. And it is they who make a city."

This was the testimony, enthusiastically given, of Dr. George W. Shelton at the civic dinner last evening in the Elks' Club.

His sentiments in a way sum up the character of the gathering. In the first place it was considerably larger than the most optimistic had anticipated, totalling about 175. The service of the dinner and the quality thereof sustained the high reputation of the club and reflected credit on the house committee, the steward, E. D. Waddle, and the volunteers among the Elks who saw to it that there was no halt at any minute. These volunteers were captained by E. R. Hornell and Harry W. Geho.

The music was a feature of the evening. It was in charge of Prof. I. T. Daniel with Miss Bethel Bowman at the piano. Miss Ethel Barth gave two solos which were immensely enjoyed.

In opening the speaking Roy I. Carson, who presided, made appreciative comment on the presence of such a large number of women, these composing about a third of the attendance.

There had been a good deal of talk Mr. Carson said, of what all this Chamber of Commerce talk was about, and it was the purpose of the dinner to answer those questions. Time was, he said, when every resident of Charleroi was proud of his home town. If there had been any change of feeling, he suggested that it was time to change it; that if any Charleroi man is now in the habit of describing himself when abroad as from Washington County or from Pittsburgh, he would do well to make Charleroi so good that he would again be proud to write that name after his own on a distant hotel register.

"If your house needs painting," he said, "you don't expect your neighbor to do it. On the same ground you cannot expect Monessen and Donora to boost Charleroi; we've got to do it ourselves."

Dr. Shelton expressed what he said was more than ordinary pleasure in standing before a Charleroi audience. Going at once into a presentation of his subject, he said that America had made wonderful progress in almost everything except building cities fit for folks to live in. He declared that in the future the people now living in cities are going to determine the character and stability of our national institutions, for more than half of the population is now in the cities.

In telling what, in addition to folks, constitutes a city, he mentioned streets, water, transportation, schools,

LINEN SHOWER FOR A RECENT BRIDE

The clerks of Berryman's store held a linen shower for Mrs. Harry Cole, formerly Miss Verna Davis, at her home, 213 Ldella avenue, Thursday evening. Mrs. Cole received many handsome and useful presents, among them a beautiful linen table cloth, a present from her former co-workers. The evening was spent in games and music and a delicious lunch was served.

NEW REBEKAH LODGE
AT BENTLEYVILLE

Narcisus Rebekah Lodge, No. 305, was instituted at Bentleyville Thursday night with 36 members, and last evening the degree was conferred on seven candidates by the degree team from Iris Rebekah Lodge, No. 209 of Charleroi. George W. Moody, of Charleroi, was in charge of the work. Visitors were present from Washington, Monaca, Monessen, Charleroi, Belle Vernon and other points in the valley and county. Mrs. Kline, State President, was also present. The new organization starts off with fine prospects for success. The work of the Charleroi degree team was highly complimented by the State President and by the visitors.

recreations and parks and a library, and then asked how a city might attain those things.

"First of all," he said, "the citizens must have an ideal. Then they must have a plan. When they have these they will be apt to get together and work together for the things they want; they will not be attained in any other way."

He warned against what he described as a popular habit. "We elect a city official one day and the next day we begin to damn him because there has not been a revolution over night. Did you ever think of trying the plan of first electing the best men possible and then standing unflinchingly behind them until they have had time to do some of the things you want so much?"

"There is something wrong with the man who knocks his city. Let's make our cities worth while and then be constant boosters for our home towns. You cannot evade the responsibility for either the prosperity or the failure of your home city; it will be just what you make it."

Dr. S. Shelton was surprised, he said, to learn that the new Chamber of Commerce was after only 400 members. "After what I have seen this evening, I shall be surprised if you do not make it 600 or 800."

"Away with your divisions," he said in closing. "Let's think only of the good of the community. Build a city here fit for folks—women and children—to live in. It is a part of our business not to get into heaven so much as to bring a little bit of heaven down to earth and make it abide in our city."

NARROW ESCAPE
FROM INSTANT DEATH

Freda Mills, aged 25, of South Brownsville, a night telephone operator for the Monongahela Railway company at East Millsboro, was admitted to the Brownsville hospital Wednesday morning, suffering from several broken ribs, and a fractured pelvis, the result of having been struck by the engine of the Fairmont Flyer at East Millsboro shortly after 9 o'clock that morning.

At the time of the accident Miss Mills was making her way down the track from the tower to board the train, when her foot slipped in the newly fallen snow, throwing her directly in front of the oncoming train. The "loggerhead" on the engine struck her in the side, knocking her clear off the tracks, which no doubt saved her from being ground to death beneath the wheels. Her injuries are of a very severe character.

NOTED LAYMAN TO SPEAK ON SUNDAY

The noted layman and Pittsburgh Lanker, Will Price, will speak at the Methodist Episcopal church next Sabbath morning. Mr. Price is unique in the work which he is doing for the church and the uplift of humanity. He is coming to Charleroi to fulfill a promise made last year. When the pastor of the local church called at Mr. Price's office a few days ago he found five other pastors there who were seeking an audience with him, respecting matters pertaining to the church and the betterment of humanity.

REVIVAL MEETINGS
WELL ATTENDED

The revival meetings in the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church, held each evening during the week, are largely attended, and increasing in interest and power. Tuesday evening the Self-Denial class of the Sunday school attended in a body, and Thursday evening the large Woman's Bible class, taught by Mrs. F. C. Stahlman, occupied seats reserved for them and made a fine showing.

Charleroi committees in the expansion of the Chamber of Commerce into one of the most modern type organizations, made a brief statement as to the aims and purposes of the movement. He announced that the actual drive for memberships will be made in the first five days of next week—unless the teams insist on cleaning up the job in three days, which is entirely possible.

A meeting of the full team organization will be held this evening in the expansion headquarters, at which final instructions will be given and the material for the drive distributed to the men.

LETTER WRITER
ADMITTED GUILT

Enmanuel A. Stroka, aged about 40, of Colonial No. 2 works, Grindstone, Fayette county, who was placed under arrest in Brownsville Tuesday evening by County Detective Murphy and State Trooper Beisel, was given a hearing before Justice Martin C. Hess at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning, and later committed to jail at Uniontown, without bail, on the charge of writing blackmail letters to mine officials at the Colonial works.

Stroka, a married man with four children, has been in the employ of the Colonial works for the past seven years. During the past month officials have received a number of letters threatening destruction of the works if certain employees were not discharged. At the same time Stroka seemed to be receiving letters of the same character, and it was through him the complaint was made. Officials, however, suspected Stroka, and succeeded in obtaining a specimen of his handwriting, which was compared with the threatening letters and found to be identical.

After his arrest Tuesday evening Stroka admitted his guilt, giving as his cause for writing the letters that he wanted to frighten away certain employees from the Colonial works.

GILMER CHILDREN ARE ALL CARED FOR

All of the children of Thomas Gilmer, who were found in such destitute circumstances on Lincoln avenue on Wednesday, are being cared for. The oldest boy Howard has been secured a position with the Fox Grocery company; the younger boy Thomas has been taken by John Hopewell, out Maple creek, while the older girl, Anna, is at the home of Mr. Darby for the present. It will be determined in a few days as to the final disposition of the children.

LEVINSON'S JEWELRY STORE
ROBBED EARLY THIS MORNINGLOSES HORSE WHEN ANIMAL BREAKS LEG

George Lenox, who does teaming in Charleroi and vicinity, lost a horse Thursday afternoon, as the result of an accident at Lock Four. He had a load of coal in a one-horse wagon, for delivery on the hill. He was on the way up when his horse slipped and fell, breaking one of its legs, and it was found necessary to shoot the animal to put it out of its misery.

LEG BROKEN IN COASTING ACCIDENT

Ruth, the 12-year old daughter of Mrs. Jennie Murphy of 620 Fallowfield avenue, while sled riding on Fifth street last night about 8 o'clock met with an accident which resulted in a fracture of her right leg. On the same sled with her were Clarence Johnson, who was guiding, and Miss Della Fellows, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fellows.

As the sled was crossing Fallowfield avenue, the boy guiding found it necessary to make a quick turn in order to avoid a pedestrian, and before he could right himself the sled ran into an automobile parked in front of the Trust company building on Fifth street. In the collision which resulted Ruth Murphy had her leg broken below the thigh and her face badly contused, while Miss Fellows was awed with a few slight bruises. Johnson was not hurt.

Miss Murphy was taken to the office of Dr. Davis, and from there to the Charleroi Monessen hospital, where she is reported as resting as comfortably as could be expected.

GOSPEL SERVICES

I will bring the blind by a way that they knew not; I will lead them in paths that they have not known; I will make darkness light before them, and crooked things straight. These things will I do unto them, and not forsake them. (Isa. 42:16.) This, dear readers, is a promise made to all man-kind by a true and living God by the lips of one of his chosen servants. Will God fulfill his promises? Are you perfectly satisfied with your spiritual condition? Is there any darkness within you and are your paths straight? Are you in the straight and narrow path? No matter what your creed may be, or if you have any creed or not, come and hear the truth as set forth in Holy Writ.

The speaker, Elder John D. Carlisle of New Philadelphia, O., will be assisted by the local ministry. You are cordially invited to attend all services.

Big Plate Glass in Front
Window was Completely
Destroyed

THIEVES GET ABOUT $50 WORTH

A big plate glass window in the jewelry store of A. Levinson at 507 Fallowfield avenue, was broken some time early this morning and it is believed a quantity of jewelry was taken.

The broken window was discovered by Officer Charles Peters on night duty, who immediately summoned Mr. Levinson to come to the store. It was found that while the window had been completely smashed, that only a comparatively small quantity of the goods on display had been taken. Mr. Levinson, after making a complete investigation of the stock, was unable to determine with exactness just how much the thieves had taken, but this morning said that the loss would hardly reach over $50. Most of the goods were still in the window display when he arrived, among them a diamondavalier, which had not been disturbed, as well as a number of costly watches and other jewelry.

Whether the thief or thieves had been frightened away it is difficult to say, although they had selected an hour when it was most propitious to get away with such a piece of work. The window had only been newly trimmed on Thursday, and it contained a fine display of jewelry. The robbers left no clue, and it will be a difficult matter to ascertain the perpetrators.

This is the second robbery of the kind within the past few weeks, the jewelry store of I. Birken on McKean avenue having been robbed in a similar manner only a short time ago and a quantity of valuables taken.

Charles VIII of Spain, emperor of Germany in the sixteenth century, was a curious man. He had a peculiar notion concerning the funeral ceremony in which he would figure. He had a peculiar notion concerning the funeral ceremony in which he would figure.

SCHUBERT DIED IN POVERTY

Estate of the Great Musician Was Estimated at His Death to Amount to About $17.

Lawrence Gilman writes as follows regarding the poverty of Franz Schubert (1797-1828), one of the greatest and most inspired composers the world ever knew, says the Denver News.

Schubert, who was almost the age of his contemporary, Shelley, composed his B minor symphony in the year of Shelley's death. Like Shelley, he was too well informed of the gods; he died of an aneurysm at thirty-one. He was a typical peasant and he died like a peasant. When he died he left behind him personal effects valued at a little over $12 and some of the poorest music in existence. A few coats, waistcoats, trousers, shoes, shirts, cravats, handkerchiefs, socks, one hat, one towel, one sheet, two bedcases, one mattress, one bolster, one quilt and a quantity of manuscripts appraised by the official inventory at ten florins (about $4.50), constituted his material possessions. Within a year of his death he had been unable to afford a 17-cent dinner and he was selling some of the greatest songs ever written for the 12-cent price of four subway tickets. As Sir George Grove observes, "beside this, the poverty of Mozart—the first of the two great musicians whom Vienna has allowed to starve—was writ." Sir George is exercised because he can find in Schubert no trace of "formal or dogmatic religion." No doubt a lifetime of privation and neglect and a miserable deathbed should dispose a man toward "formal or dogmatic religion," and develop a spirit of humble gratitude for so instructive an experience of the ways of Providence.

OBJECTED TO WOMAN'S SKIRT

Peculiar Reason Advanced by Chinaman for Refusing to Consider Matrimonial Alliance.

In spite of the success with which the campaign against the binding of women's feet has been waged in China, there are still parts where men will not marry girls who have natural feet. Missionaries try, so far as possible, to arrange marriages between Christian girls and Christian men. One of our Christian girls, writes a correspondent, was getting quite an old maid, having reached the age of twenty-eight. Several heathen had asked her, but she refused them all. One of our preachers approached a country tenant farmer and tried to persuade him to ask the twenty-eight-year-old lady. We all thought it would come off. The man was about the same age as the lady in question, and had not yet succeeded in getting engaged. But, to our surprise, he would have nothing to do with the plan, and gave as his reason: "Who would marry a girl with a skirt like that?" The girl had her skirt embroidered in a different way to the girls and the women in the village where the particular swain lived, and he felt that he dared not make such an innovation on the fashion of his own village. A beautiful pair of brown eyes, long, fine, black hair, and a good Christian character counted as nothing against a strange style of skirt embroidery.

Two women were talking; one smiled as she spoke, and the other frowned. One looked out on the world with friendly eyes, and the other frowned into the faces of passers-by.

"Well, you see, I learned long ago how to smile," said the smiling one. "At first it was not so easy; then by degrees I learned to smile even though I did feel like crying. I think that personally I made a hard study of the psychology of a smile. When I went into a store, and faced a clerk who was inattentive or insolent I smiled at her, and then made known my wants. In most cases I got back a smile for every one I gave. Not always, of course, but often enough to learn that a smile would go farther than a frown any day. So that even though I may feel like pulling somebody's hair, I smile. It is contagious, but the health board will not interfere."—Columbus Telegram.

Pilgrims Brought Many.

The Pilgrims in America were more inclined to look after gunpowder than books, but several hundred volumes were brought over on the Mayflower, including 400 books owned by William Brewster, the leader. Sixty-four of them were in Latin and a number of others in Greek and Hebrew, while still others were devoted strictly to systematic theology, volumes of controversies with the Roman church, volumes on toleration, polemical works, and discussions on the Reformation. Every family had a Bible, of course, and everyone read it. They started at the first chapter and read the book from cover to cover.

Of 37 Pilgrims the inventory of whose estates is given in T. G. Wright's "Literary Culture in Early New England," not one had less than 11 worth of books, and 11 had 45 or more, though only four of these estates totaled more than $200.

Remarkable Thirsts.

Glassblowers are known to drink from fifty to sixty pints of water during a day's work and to be nothing the worse for it, but they are beaten by a young and capable worker of whom a physician reports that he drank 12 gallons of water a day and a whole tubful of it during the night.

Great Kitchen Comfort Sale Opens Saturday

This is a real exposition of what modern inventive genius and manufacturing skill have done to make woman's work in the kitchen easier, pleasanter, more interesting. Old-fashioned methods that wasted time and effort, that necessitated needless walking, reaching and stooping, have given place to modern ways of efficiency and economy.

Women now do in half the time, with half the effort, things which once made kitchen work drudgery.

To show the woman of Charleroi what has been accomplished in this direction, we have arranged this great Kitchen Comfort Sale which opens Saturday. Every woman will be interested in the special display and demonstration of these modern kitchen devices. For women are as much interested in their work as men are in their work in offices, factories, or on the farm. And they are as much entitled to improvements which mean increased efficiency and economy.

A Special Display and Demonstration of the Famous Sellers Kitchen Cabinets

Of all the modern inventions which make woman's work easier and pleasanter, these famous Kitchen Cabinets are easily the leaders.

No woman who has not actually used one of these cabinets can realize how much time and effort they save—what a wonderful help they are. And no woman who has ever used one could keep house without it.

EVERYTHING WITHIN ARM'S REACH

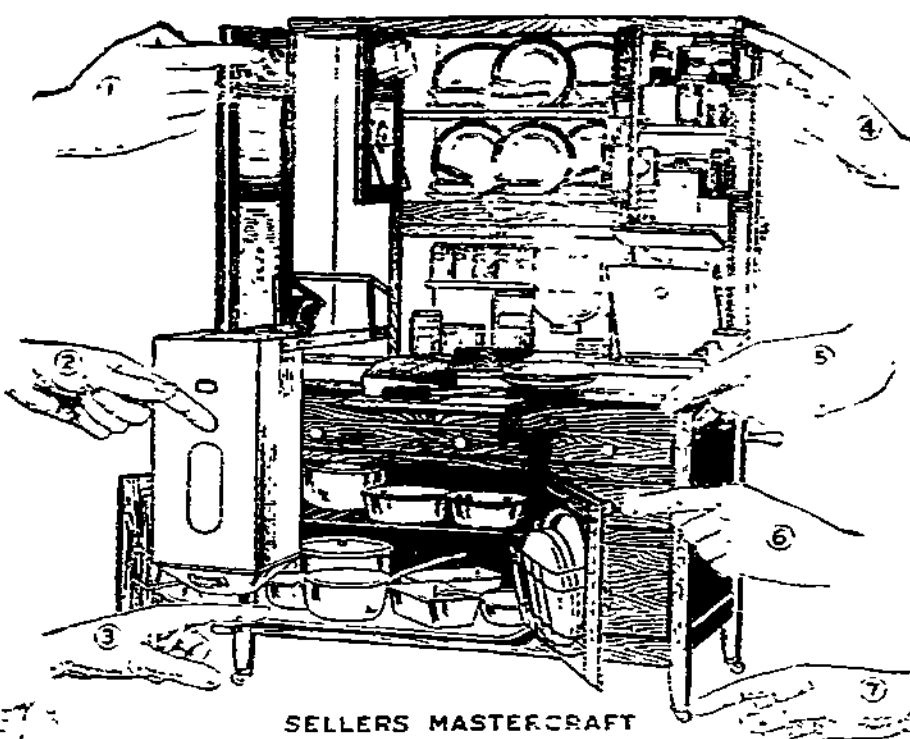

There's a place in the Sellers Kitchen Cabinet for all the things needed in kitchen work—things now kept in many different places.

The Sellers keeps all these within arm's reach. It does away with unnecessary walking, reaching and stooping. It makes kitchen work easier, pleasanter, more interesting.

A SAFEGUARD OF WOMAN'S HEALTH

Physicians heartily recommend the Sellers Kitchen Cabinet. They know how injurious to womanly health—and to the good looks which are so dependent on it—are the reaching and stooping, the unnecessary exertions, which the Sellers does away with.

In many instances the installation of a Sellers in a home has brought a marked improvement in the health of its mistress.

- SELLERS MASTERCRAFT

 - No. 4—Dove-tail Construction. As used in all high grade furniture. Costs us $7,500 extra, annually.
 - No. 5—Dust-proof Base Top underneath the Porcelain Work Table. Costs us $14,250 extra, annually.
 - No. 6—Glass Knobs. Cost us $1,250 extra, annually.
 - No. 7—Anti-proof Casters. Cost us $10,000 extra, annually.

Every woman has read or heard of the "15 Famous Features" which make the Sellers Kitchen Cabinet the choice of domestic science teachers and discriminating women everywhere.

If you have not already seen these 15 Famous Features in the homes of some of your friends, you will be interested in seeing them demonstrated here tomorrow.

EVERY ONE AN IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT

These features are not merely advertising or selling features. Every one is an actual practical advantage. There's the Automatic Lowering Flour Bin for instance; the Automatic Base Shelf Extender; the Anti-Proof Casters; and 12 others. These improvements are refinements are combined in no other cabinet. They cost the manufacturers thousands of dollars every year. And the owner of the Sellers gets the benefit. For the Sellers costs no more than any other good cabinet.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO BUY—COME ANYWAY

We want every woman in Charleroi to attend this great sale—see this Exposition of Kitchen Efficiency. You cannot afford to miss it, purely as a matter of interest. EDUCATION IN INDUSTRY

There was a time, and not so long ago, when a college education handicapped instead of helping the young American who wanted to go into business. The precedence was given practically always to the young man who had left school early and got his training in a business office or a factory. This was partly because the average employer had himself worked up from the bottom, and partly because of an expectation that a college graduate brought into practical affairs was bound to be lazy or inefficient or both. He was supposed to be fit only for one of the more or less learned professions. How could Greek, Latin, literature, psychology, or even a knowledge of high brow notions of economics be of any service in the business world?

Now all this is changed, chiefly as a result of the war, but the change had begun even before in consequence of the increasing attention given by the colleges to technical training to promote industrial efficiency. The war made good use of chemistry and physics, for obvious reasons, and even of psychology in the management of enlisted men. It is now realized that training in these and other branches can be made equally good use of in manufacturing and in the management of labor. The great industries now not only seek technical training but see promising possibilities in the products of the higher education generally because of the broader vision which such general culture brings. The young man of a cultural education in advance of the technical is even said to be preferred because of his greater ability to meet all requirements. Today it is the well educated man who is wanted for the highest positions and who can count on the best pay. It is no surprise to hear, therefore, that the captains of industry have formed a committee to co-operate with college heads in the selection of promising graduates for high business positions.

Personal vanity dies hard. A New Yorker of 75 who thought he won his bride of 19 on his good looks and youthful graces is now suing for divorce on the ground that she wastes his money.

Although home brewing is very widespread, it is claimed that most of the drunkenness is seen among official agents with frequent access to superior brands.

WOMEN AS "PAMPERED TOYS"

Distinguished French Abbe Makes Some Sharp Commentaries on Sex Relations in America

American women expect (and rightly) from their husbands the same attention which French husbands receive from their wives. The American husband expects nothing, and for what he receives the Lord makes him truly thankful, writes Ernest Dimey, in Harper's.

"We are pampered toys," an American lady told me in a distinctly resentful tone, "but we only know it when our husbands, after keeping every trouble from us, suddenly die."

If the abstraction called the American woman could be met with I should ask her whether she really likes to see a dozen men in her drawing room watch her the whole evening and help up with military precision the moment she lifts a foot to the floor, whether she would not prefer her escort to think of what he is saying to her instead of concentrating on where she walks, slipping to the unprotected side of her the whole time; or whether she likes being supported across the road with infinite precautions, as if she were a very ill person or a very brittle object; or, on the contrary, firmly grasped below the shoulder and walked to the other side with the triumphant ease of long practice.

I have kept a picture representing three exceedingly widely known American men watching a lady go down a dark stairway. She is spoken of as a short woman and would probably think nothing of scrambling down a rope ladder if it amused her. The steps on which she appears are broad and comfortable, but the gentlemen with guiding and supporting gestures smile at her achievement with the same wonder and delight as if she were a baby for the first time off the go-cart. Meanwhile the lady herself smiles in her fur like coy Phoebe between two clouds.

RARE FRUITS IN PHILIPPINES

Two That Are Said to Be Delicious and Unknown in the Rest of the World.

Among the productions of the Philippine Islands are two delicious fruits almost unknown in the rest of the world. One of these is the durian, whose remarkable qualities were described upon by Alfred Russel Wallace during his explorations in the Malay archipelago.

It grows on a lofty tree somewhat resembling an elm, is about as large as a coconut, has a shiny shell, and contains a creamy pulp which contains some of the flavor of a delicious custard with those of a fine cheese.

To eat durians, we are told by those who know, is a new sensation worth a voyage to the East to experience. Americans in the islands call the durian "the vegetable Limburger cheese."

The other rare fruit spoken of is the mangosteen, said to be the only fruit that the governor general of the islands has never tasted. The exquisitely flavored liquid it contains cannot be preserved for shipping abroad.

Ways of Politicians. "Some politicians," said Jud Tunkins, "ain't satisfied with the mistakes they can make themselves, but appoint a whole lot of folks to carry on the work."

Possibly. Harpers say that the price of rabbit skins is likely to ruin the trade. Meanwhile the mere act of getting the skins is apt to ruin the rabbit.

A Surfeit of Art.

When I was a schoolboy and was to have a new knife I could not make my mind up to which was the prettiest in the showcase, and I did not think any of them were particularly pretty, and so I chose with a heavy heart. But when I looked at my purchase at home where no glittering blades came into competition with it, I was astonished to see how handsome it was. To this day my new knife looks better out of the shop than they did in it, with other new knives. It begins to dawn upon me now that possibly what I have been talking for indoors in the galleries may be uniform beauty after all. I honestly hope it is to others, but certainly it is not to me. Perhaps the reason I like to enjoy going to the Academy of Fine Arts in New York was because there were but a few hundred paintings in it, and it did not seem to me to go through the list. I suppose the academy was born and began in the Forty-Mile desert, and a European gallery is a state dinner of 13 courses. One leaves no sign after him of the one dish, but the 13 frighten away his appetite and give him no satisfaction.—Mark Twain in "The Innocents Abroad," from Palmer's "Moments With Mark Twain" (Harpers's).

Old Man Dollar says he is determined to get on a Pre-War Basis at Berryman's Nimble Dollar Sale.

New Illuminator. Prof. Alexander Silverman has invented a new illuminator for the microscope, whose special advantage is that it gives a very strong light upon the object examined, so that opaque and translucent bodies can be as readily studied as transparent ones. The top of the object on the slide can be seen with all the variations of its surface. It is particularly valuable in testing samples of metals since it shows the presence of blow holes and pits and much detail not hitherto visible. It is likewise useful to textile experts since it shows the threads of a fabric from every angle and is also much appreciated by bacteriologists.

There's a Difference.

"I resent the imputation that I am a member of the 'pic brigade,'" said the pompous citizen.

"But you don't deny that you want a government job, do you?" asked Mr. Dubois.

"Certainly not. It should be the ambition of every patriot to serve his country."

"I guess what you should be is the proprietor of some private company."

Strictly Business.

Beginnings of Baseball.

Abner Doubleday, who later went to West Point and ultimately became a major general in the United States army, is given the credit for originating the game in 1839. He and some other young men began to play a game they afterward called baseball. One of these, named Cartwright, had the idea of a diamond to improve the game. "Two Old Cat" and "Three Old Cat" were still early forms of ball, and were adapted probably from the English game of rounders.

Look Ahead.

It is well enough to stop and rest now and then, but while we rest, our eyes ought to be on the hilltop that is to be scaled rather than on the valley out of which we have come. Think always in terms of tomorrow, not of yesterday. Never mind what you did yesterday. It is what you are going to do tomorrow that you want to think of. And be sure while you are thinking of it that you devote today to the business of arriving.—John Blake in Chicago Daily News.

The Peanut.

The common peanut grows in a peculiar way that is distinctly original. The little plant sends up its shoots, with the fruit on the end of a somewhat stiff stalk, and then before it ripens the stem bends over and carefully pushes the fruit underground. As peas are said to be especially fond of these, it has been humorously suggested that the plant does this to hide its nuts from the porker's too inquisitive investigations.

Peculiarity of Tadpoles.

Tadpoles fed on extract of the thyroid gland develop through the various stages of their metamorphosis into frogs very rapidly, but they do not grow in size; when their own thyroids are suppressed—by cauterization or excision—or when they are fed on extracts of the thyroid gland they grow to great size, but never develop into frogs, remaining nothing but giant tadpoles.

Regular Teeth.

The teeth should be regular. They should not be crowded together, and there should be no aggressively noticeable spaces between them. They should be white or seem white. The unromantic truth is that teeth are never really white. But in contrast with the lips they look white, and the more healthily looking the lips the whiter do the teeth look in contrast.

Had It In for Lawyers.

Distrust and knowledge of his own profession, caused an Australian lawyer to include a clause in his will, stating that if any of his beneficiaries, for any reason whatsoever, contested his will, that person's share was to be paid to a certain charity, and no lawyers were to make any money out of his will.

Awful Combat.

Jane was careful not to let her dog, Henrietta, get into a fight. But one day when she was out playing she found her fighting with a black-and-white dog. She was excited and ran for her mother crying: "Oh, mamma, Henrietta is fighting with a checkered dog."

"Light Blue Hair."

The police, no doubt, will have little difficulty in finding a man listed in a recent police bulletin in New York as being wanted on a state charge. "Light blue hair" should make him conspicuous in almost any crowd.

Removing Label.

To easily and quickly remove a label from a bottle, wet the face of the label with water and hold for a moment over any convenient flame. The steam will penetrate the label, and it will soften the paste.

Birds and Superstition.

No person is so much mixed up with superstitions as a pigeon fancier. One who has been a pigeon fancier for many years, and who has seen many a pigeon fancier, says that he has never known a pigeon fancier who was not a superstitious fellow.

Notations in Commons.

The word "common" is a notable instance of a word that was the more common the more it was used. It was first used by King Lear when he said to the steward:

GO NO FARTHER

The Evidence is at Your Door.

Charlottesville proof is what you want and the statement of this highly respected resident will banish all doubt. Mrs. Geo. Arnold, 821 McKean Ave., Charlottesville, says: "The first symptom of kidney trouble I had was a dull, weary aches across my back. I had a 'run down,' tired-out feeling that made me feel of no account. Every time I went over it almost took my breath away to straighten up again, and then I would become dizzy and black specks would appear before my eyes. My kidneys acted irregularly which caused me a lot of annoyance, too. I was told to try Doan's Kidney Pills so I got a supply and after taking a few doses my back felt strong again. I continued the use of Doan's until I was cured of my trouble."

Why Weak Glands Make People "Cranky"

Scientists tell us that our glands govern the building up of the billions of cells in our muscles and nerves, and that when we are nervous, irritable, "cranky," depressed or given to worrying it is an indication that our glands are run-down. The thing to do is to build them up. One preparation which thousands of people are now using with splendid results is Glandex Compound. This contains sheep and cattle gland extracts which help supply the elements lacking in run-down human glands. The success of Glandex Compound in treating nervous diseases is surprising. The first few treatments usually bring decided results, and soon the nerves are often as strong and calm as ever. Glandex Compound is sold at all drug stores. Your money back if not perfectly satisfied with results.

YES. THANK YOU. THE FRANKLIN AUTOMOBILE BUSINESS IS GOOD!

Our organization is singularly free from gloom—we are up and doing, every day, and we are BUSY.

Yet, from nearly every quarter comes the cry, "What's the matter with the automobile business?"

Our own Franklin business is not a marked exception to the Franklin sale throughout the country. Where other automobiles have slumped, the Franklin sale has been steady and satisfactory.

Why has the Franklin sale, under such circumstances, become so conspicuously large? What's the answer?

There are two big reasons: First, Franklin superiority in comfort, economy and endurance. Second, the inherent desire of every red-blooded human being to pick a winner.

For the Franklin car is a winner—make no mistake on that point. No other car at any price compares.

What other car yields 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline and 12,500 miles to the set of tires? None. What other car shows such a small yearly rate of depreciation? None.

When money is "tight"—when the motor-buying public is unusually cautious, does not this remarkable tribute to a remarkable car plainly indicate that the Franklin is the car for you?

HERE'S NEW FREAK IN ART

I understand that an artist has swept all the other idols of the art world into the gutter. He has provided the last people who depend for social success on the gush of the pseudo-enthusiast with a new lease of life, says a writer in London Sketch.

It seems easier to attain a success of this sort in the picture world than in music or literature. All have their Buntings, of course, but studios and picture galleries are stuffed with such things.

This man, it is said, is a very simple fellow. He painted the faces of his patrons green. Nobody in this world as far as I know, ever yet painted portraits of living people with green faces. Why not? Were they afraid the subjects might not like it? But they had merely to choose the right subjects. Did they suppose there would be no public for pictures with green faces? Well, there is now, at any rate.

This reminds me of a young woman who protested that the only author she could stand was Henry James. To "stand" and to "understand," you see, are very different things. This class of enthusiast does not want to understand. They love to wonder what it is all about, like a small child peering at the works of a watch. You would not expect a baby to discuss the merits of a watch.

LET THEM START IN EARLY

We heard the other day of a child who had begun to write poetry at the age of five. It must be quite a shock to the parents to realize so soon that their hope and pride will never have to worry over an income tax blank.

On the other hand, finding out the truth early in life will save them many disappointments and considerable expense. They can begin at once to save money by sending the child to the barbers.

The child ought to be very easy to amuse. Give it a piece of paper and a pencil, and let it rave. For if a child begins to be a poet at the age of five, it stands a reason that the child will go, from bad to worse. There is nothing that parents can do with a born poet but admit it.

In some respects it would be an advantage to the human race if all children indicated their future career at the age of five. There would be fewer plumbers trying to play the piano, and fewer ribbon clerks trying to win lawsuits.

A child who, at five, smashes everything in sight ought to be trained for Wall street, and one that seemed inclined to swallow everything should make a good congressman.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

Cheap Building Material.

The making of houses gloriously from slate waste, as proposed by north Wales builders, is an experiment of much interest. The waste has been accumulating in quarries for three centuries, and is adapted for use in paints, gutters, blocks, slabs, tiles, flooring, mortar, rubber and molded products, but hitherto the cost of manufacture seems to have kept it from competition with other materials. Tried for roads, the slate has proven too dirty in wet weather. It is suggested as a promising binder in granite macadam, and bricks made from it have been found very strong and as resistant to water absorption as other bricks. Good drain pipes have been made from slate dust. For cement the ground waste is claimed to be especially good, and near the quarries a mastic of slate dust and oil has been used often for repairing leaky roofs. This mixture, when it sets, is said to be harder and more durable than the natural slate rock.

Many people believe that Mount Washington, in New Hampshire, is the highest mountain in the eastern part of the United States. Mount Washington stands 6,288 feet above sea level, according to the United States geological survey, but many peaks in the southern Appalachians are several hundred feet higher than New Hampshire's famous mountain.

The highest mountain in the Appalachian system—the highest point in the United States east of the Rockies—is Mount Mitchell, in North Carolina, which stands at an elevation of 6,711 feet.

Porcelain of Great Value.

Remarkable properties are claimed for a new porcelain. A special glaze expands and contracts in exactly the same degree as the mass of porcelain, and chemical and other vessels made from the material not only endure great heat but are not fractured by sudden changes of temperature. It is even possible to fire holes in the new porcelain, using an oxyhydrogen blow pipe, without causing cracking. The material, moreover, can be worked like glass, and different pieces can be fused together, or a porcelain tube or handle can be fused to a dish. The blow-pipe softened mass can be blown like glass into bulbs or other forms not hitherto produced with material of this kind.

SIMPLE REASON FOR THRIFT

Its Practice Necessary That There May Be Margin of Production Over Consumption.

Is it not mere caddishness for one who can afford to buy and does buy silk shirts and silk stockings and automobiles and who freely admits that he wastes money, but who justifies himself somewhat deliberately by saying that he can afford to waste money, and that it is nobody's business to object to other people doing the same sort of thing only because he thinks the other people cannot afford the expenditures? Right down in our hearts we know that the answer is not all with the welfare of those other people who are wasting their money; it is really a matter of jealousy and of class distinction based on a clinging feeling that these people have committed social misdeeds, as when the loose disheveled mistress' hat. And any one who preaches thrift to people on the ground that they should not have what they like for their money is simply preaching nonsensical cant. He is really preaching revolution.

If, then, thrift has no virtue in itself, if every person within the limits of the law is entitled to spend his money as he can, and more than he can earn if he can get away with it, is there any rational reason for thrift?

The reason for thrift is plain. It is not necessary to talk about morality. It is simply that if we do not have thrift we shall not have a margin of production over consumption—that is, we shall not have capital. If we do not have capital we cannot have progress, for we shall have no means wherewith to make improvement in existing facilities for production. There is the danger of extravagance. And it is a very real danger.—Samuel Crowther, in the North American Review.

PAPER FROM VENEER WASTE

Possibilities in Material That Has Hitherto Been Considered to Be Without Value.

In the wood waste from veneer factories the United States forest products laboratory says considerable raw material suitable for the manufacture of high grades of paper. The cores of many kinds of veneer logs, now used in a large part for fuel, would make excellent pulpwood. In addition, a large part of the clippings could be turned into pulp stock with profit.

Among the veneer woods whose waste has paper-making possibilities are red gum, yellow poplar, cottonwood, birch, tupelo, basswood and beech. Many veneer factories cutting these species are already within shipping distance of pulp mills. In certain other cases veneer factories are so grouped that they might furnish pulpwood enough to warrant the erection of a centrally located mill. Other economic factors being favorable, such a mill could probably operate on a daily supply of veneer waste equivalent to 50 cords of ordinary pulpwood.—Scientific American.

"Roast" Handball Players.

The execrations uttered by the indignant baseball fan against the unlucky or awkward player in America are as gentle murmurs compared with the epithets hurled by the occupants of the gallery at the contestants in the game of handball in the playgrounds of Madrid, Spain. "Rogue!" "Thief!" "Convict!" and "Idiot!" are some of the mild terms with which the players are greeted when they miss a ball or send it back in an easy position for the opponent to play it.

The reason for this excitement is the prevalent betting, in which the women spectators participate as much as the men. Professional bookmakers attend all matches, and their shouts of the odds for and against the players are mixed with the cries of the gambling spectators, until the scene resembles a bedlam.

Another Discoverer.

In an old Spanish geographical work on America published in 1552 by Francisco Lopez de Gomera, a priest of Sevilla, it is mentioned that Labrador was reached for the first time by a party of Norwegian sailors piloted by John Scolvus or Jon Skolp in 1476. The announcement was made for the first time some years ago, but it was greeted with skepticism that Columbus had been anticipated by Scolvus by 20 years and steps are being taken to urge the former's claims for honors.

Packs of Diamonds.

During the year 1919 South Africa exported 1,124 pounds of diamonds. The country's production just about equals that of Russia.

This quantity of precious stones, when taken in terms of bushels would be a little less than four, or that could be two ordinary grain bags full of them. Normally the stones in a bushel would be of very large size, as well as many medium-sized stones.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Shaft for Hero Dead.

A shaft of granite seventy feet long is to be erected in Denmark as a memorial to the many thousands of American and allied soldiers of Danish descent who died in the World war. It has been estimated that about 30,000 men of Danish blood fought in the American armies in France and that about 20,000 Danes fought in the

GUEST CHARGED FOR INSULT

This French Hotel Proprietor Surely Went the Limit in the Matter of Extortion.

"Many stories are told," said Col. Elliston P. Masters at a Fort Sheridan tea, "of French extortions. But the worst I have heard was related to me by an army friend."

"He went to a hotel in Paris without making a bargain about rates and dined at a restaurant with friends."

"Some evening, as he was starting out as usual, the proprietor accosted him in the hall and inquired: 'I hope you're dining with us to night, monsieur?'"

"No," he replied, "I have an engagement."

"The proprietor, with a despairing exclamation: 'It is no use to the establish- ment, monsieur, never to dine here!'"

"Not at all," my friend answered and thought to none of the matter."

"But when he came to pay his hotel bill, although he had not eaten any meals there, he found this item: 'Twelve dinners—250 francs.'"

"But I took no dinners here," the guest protested to the proprietor; you remarked about that to me your- self."

"I know you didn't," was the re- ply. "But you have those dinners the price would only have been 250 francs."

"And what are the extra hundred francs for?"

"For the insult, monsieur—for the insult!"

TREASURE IN NORTH AFRICA

French Writer Declares Land Is a Storehouse of Historical and Archaeological Beauties.

North Africa—Algeria, Morocco, Tunisia, according to Louis Bertrand, writing in L'Illustration (Paris), a storehouse of historical and arch- aeological treasures. Bertrand, the great majority of Frenchmen, France's foreign policy and these storied lands, washed by the Atlantic Ocean.

M. Bertrand contends that most of his countrymen visit the colonial pos- session much as they would visit a spectacular review or something of the sort, as a bizarre experience of strange sounds and colors and music; whereas, if they would but open their eyes, they might behold dead cities raising up their heads and almost hear the echoing footsteps of the Roman legions. He points, in fact, to North Africa as the richest museum of Latin antiquity in the world, where the ruins of the imperial occupation are thickly strewn for leagues, crying out for the pick and spade of the excavator. "From Volu- hills in Morocco to Gigili in Tunis," declares the writer, "on a line 2,000 kilometers long, the Roman ruins are landmarks in Africa. With their tri- umphal arches, colonnades, pagan tem- ples, basilicas and Christian burial places, they outline a shattered royal road without a peer."

Challenge to Thought.

When you can't do what you want to it's a challenge to think. If you can't do it, why can't you? The chances are you will find it is not right that it should be done at all. Or it may be that you are not the one to do it. You may want to swim the Niagara just below the falls so you can boast of doing what has not been done. You may want to fly to the moon so you can write of experiences never yet felt by man. You may even want to play the Jonah game so you can give your experiences of a few days in the deep. But you can't do it. The why lies in the fact that you are not made for such exploits. To attempt any one of them would be to tempt self-destruction. The crowd might stand by and watch you make the effort and when you failed they would call you a fool. When you can't do what you want to—think—first.

Washington at Forty-four.

The authenticity of a portrait of Washington at forty-four by John Trumbull, painted on a mahogany panel eight by ten inches in size, has recently been established under pec- uniar and interesting circumstances, writes William H. Sheldon, curator of the Jumeil museum, in the Internation- al Studio. This picture has hung in the museum of Jumeil mansion for six years in the collection of William Lanier Washington.

The head is interesting as showing Trumbull's recollection of Washington at forty-four, and his recollection was seconded by pen drawings made while on his staff in 1773. General Washington was forty-three years of age when he took command of the army at Bos- ton.

Expected It White.

"Americans traveling for the first time in Europe," said Senator Brandegee at a Hartford dinner, "display provincial crudeness in many ways, but the faux pas a Boston leather por- tress made in a fashionable Paris re- staurant was paragonic. There was to prohibition he was quite unimpaired in the matter of table wines—he had made his pile after we went dry."

"Holy smoke, waiter! this porter exclaimed haughtily. 'Look what you've brought me—yellow wine when I asked you for white!'"

Hush Money.

Caller—Well, you are a good little boy. Are you always as quiet as this? Johnny—No; but mother's going to
